It is an odd time that we live in where companies that fall short in innovation and marketing skills attempt and often succeed by having the DOJ do their dirty work. I feel that any delays in this action and/or further punitive action towards Microsoft will have a harmful effect on me the consumer. Microsoft has always in my opinion offered me affordable and good quality products. And the marketplace is always the best judge. If in fact consumers did not believe this OS/2 WordPerfect AmiPro Lotus etc. would all be the market leaders. Linux may in time actually succeed at this.
